TIMES ARE GETTING BETTER.
 After a Long Slumber Prosperity Has Commenced to Rise—Reports from Everywhere Show Improved Conditions.

The mercantile reports of Dun's and Bradstreet's agencies are busy just now chronicling widespread improvement in the conditions of business throughout the country. Whether business has gotten tired of waiting upon Congress for that tariff bill, or whether it has simply gotten tired of its own sloth and is coming to the surface after having touched bottom; whether either of these hypotheses is the case is a matter for conjecture, but certain it is that "things are picking up." In Los Angeles there has hardly been a time when there has been more business than at present, and this activity reflecting, as it always does, upon the values of real estate, has sent those community-made values away up to boom figures. Reports from other parts of the East show that our returning prosperity is not a local thing but is prevalent all over the country. If you wish to see an instance of present prosperity in Los Angeles, call at M. German's jewelry store at 320 South Spring street, and watch the rapidity at which jewelry is sold there, and note also the trifle for which they are bought. These sales have been in progress now for upwards of three months and the great stock is nearly gone, what there is left is of high quality and prime value and will be sold without the slightest regard to cost. Gold Watches, Chains, Diamonds, Semi-precious Stones, Solid Silverware, everything you might find in a first-class jewelry stock is going at a clearance sale. It will last but a few days more. Auctioneer T. E. Dawson, into whose hands the entire stock was turned over, has been suddenly recalled to Washington through illness in his family, and his place is taken by auctioneer Matlock, well-known in this city. Mr. Matlock will conduct the last Ladies' Day, which will occur (this) Tuesday, when every lady visitor will be presented with a souvenir. Don't forget the hours, 11 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m., 320 South Spring street.

Gen. Hart of Sacramento and Chairman Knight in Opposition—A Remarkable Scene—Nominating Speeches and Estee's Acceptance.

By Telegraph to The Times.
SACRAMENTO, June 20.—(Special Dispatch.) As has been predicted in these dispatches Morris M. Estee of Napa was this afternoon nominated to the high office of Governor, for the second time in the history of California politics. The tremendous potentiality of a trained and organized force in the minority against the disconnected kicking of a majority was shown here today as it has been shown in a thousand riots and melees on other fields than this. To judge by the applause at intervals today, one would declare that the opposition to the solid Estee movement was certain to assert itself and smash things to smithereens, but when it came down to the cool and dignified business of a roll-call the Estee votes, piled up with such precision as to nominate him without the need of a single vote from the big, bad city by the sea.

The day was a rip-roaring Sacramento roaster and the delegates stowed in their seats and fanned until the big space where they sat looked like an undulating forest of cool producers. The Governor-makers were somewhat laggardly in getting into their places under the canopy and it was some minutes after 10 o'clock when Chairman Knight, clad in a natty suit of summer garments, walked up the broad staircase to his seat of power, and pounded on the pedestal for order.

Mr. Dare of San Francisco presented his report on order of business and its reading was the signal for a ruction. Its provision to refer all resolutions without debate started up Mr. Savage of San Francisco with a motion to amend, and mixed up a host of orators in a wild and tumultuous whirlwind of oratory. Mr. Blennerhassett of Tehama by proxy, and late of Los Angeles, set things by the ears with his reference to some mysterious boss resting under a charge of felony, and had O'Brien of San Francisco astride of his collar amid an uproar and confusion that kept George Knight's gavel dancing a tattoo. The Jove-fronted Blennerhassett crawled out of the hole by saying that he referred to a Democratic boss, and peace reigned once more.

Mr. Savage's motion carried, and then Gen. Dickinson started up the windmills again with his motion to amend the order by first nominating the associate justice. Everybody had their say finally, and the roll-call showed conclusively that Mr. Estee had what is popularly known as a dead immortal clinch on the nomination for Governor.

After adjournment for lunch, the Platform Committee reported, and Grove L. Johnson of Sacramento, its chairman, read the new Declaration of Independence with splendid effect. The laborer's exclusion plank called out wild and uproarious applause, cheers and cries of "That's the way." The silver plank and the public school plank received rattling volleys, and the woman's suffrage beam was received with a measure of applause that had in it elements of the puerile and of astonishment, but the whole kit went through with a whoop and the game was made.

George Knight's speech nominating Estee was a strong one; one of the best I have ever heard him make in convention, but most of the talkers talked too blagged long, considering the reading of the thermometer.

Gen. A. L. Hart of Sacramento stirred up the homest nest of the day by his roast of the bosses and collar-wearers, and precipitated a fight that at one time looked extremely serious. Had it continued another ten minutes another man than Mr. Estee would undoubtedly have been the nominee of the convention tonight. Mr. Knight was on the floor, having surrendered the chair to Davis of Sacramento. Mr. Davis is a lightweight, and lost control of his team. Knight, from his seat in the San Francisco delegation, jumped to his feet to make a point of order against Hart, and the convention at once became bedlam itself. There were shouts of "Hart!" "Hart!" "Hart!" and "Go on!" "Put him out!" and a din that made the tapping of the chairman's gavel utterly soundless.

 The uproar continued until, livid with rage, Knight leaped upon his chair, and, shaking his two fists at the chairman, insisted upon his point of order. Gen. Hart stood with folded arms and waited for the cyclone to go by. Jim Rea, away across the hall, danced out in the aisle and shook his fist at Knight, and the sprayed Knight returned the compliment with two fists. It was a perfect tornado, and Knight, seeing a grand smash impending, rushed up to the feeble chairman, snatched the gavel from his hand and yanked the howling convention onto its haunches, much as an expert driver checks a team of fractious horses. It was a lively scene while it lasted, and a mighty tickle one for some folks, and the belligerent Knight, who had lost his head for the moment, thought better of it, and declined with much good sense and adroitness to press his point of order, and Gen. Hart had his say out.

The roll-call showed how closely Dan Burns had the thing figured out, and emphasized the patent fact that none of the other candidates were in it. There is, now that the Governorship fight is out of the way, a prospective change in the situation. The delegates are beginning to consider the possibility of a vacancy should Estee be elected, and the chances for Millard being nominated have apparently diminished. Strong influences have been brought to bear upon Gen. Chipman to get him to take the second place, and only his positive declaration to run can prevent his nomination tomorrow morning. Brown will probably be nominated for Secretary of State, but there is considerable talk tonight of a dark horse, and Waite's friends are yet confident.

It looks like Black of Ventura for Superintendent of Schools, Radcliff of San Luis Obispo for Treasurer, Johnston for State Printer, Ward for Clerk, Fitzgerald for Attorney-General, sure; Wright or Reichart for Surveyor-General and De Haven, Torrance and Henshaw for Judges. I think Judge Van Fleet of Sacramento has been sidetracked, but he told me a little while ago that he hadn't. Capt. John Cross seems to have more than a fighting chance for the Railroad Commission in our district and George Arnold thinks he is slated for the Board of Equalization, but Wickham of Orange, and Brown of San Bernardino dispute it.

The Estee men have adopted a cry and are shouting it about the streets as this dispatch is being written. A band was out and serenaded the nominee at the Golden Eagle at 9 o'clock, and he was escorted down to a carriage in front of the hotel, introduced to the assembly by Gen. Chipman in a clever speech and made to shake himself. Mr. Estee looks worn and weary from the strain of the past week and evidently will be glad of a rest. There are fireworks, cheers, roistering and considerable hilarity as I write. The Estee contingent is happy, hilarious and confidently say if they get good men to go along, on the ticket that the old "boss" can't be beat.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.
A Los Angeles Caucus. That Was Not Harmonious—Blennerhassett's Bazaar.
By Telegraph to The Times.
SACRAMENTO, June 20.—(Special Dispatch.) Wednesday opened up warm and perspiring, after the usual manner of Sacramento days at this time of the year. The Committee on Platform had been at work during the entire night, and many of the delegates had not sought their downy couches, for the reason that they thought it would be easier to get up in time for the convention by not going to bed.

The Los Angeles delegation had not been idle, and ceaseless trading on combinations was kept up until late last night, and resumed early this morning. The delegation was got together at 9 o'clock in Grangers' Hall for another caucus, which was held with closed doors, reporters as well as all outsiders being excluded. It was understood that during the night negotiations had been made to trade the closed doors could be heard the excited debate, which at times waxed sultry.

When the doors were opened and the delegates came forth there was but little disposition to discuss what had taken place in private. Maj. Furrey and others of Los Angeles city were very bitter against Chairman Arthur of Pasadena, the major declaring that he, for one, would not allow himself to be traded like a chattel. The "kickers" were in a hopeless minority, but they kept up the fight to the last, and announced their intention to carry it onto the floor of the convention, whereupon the "boss element," otherwise the Los Angeles end of the Buckley-Burns combine waxed wrath and denounced them as chumps, or words to that effect.

No blood was spilled, however, and the delegation finally started for the convention hall, where they arrived heated and dusty and in anything but an amiable frame of mind, the only consolation that was apparent being the fact, as stated, that "McKinley was knocked out, anyway."

On convening the report of the Committee on Credentials was adopted without debate. Then came the report of the Committee on the Order of Business and Permanent Organization, when the first exciting episode of the convention took place. Savage of San Francisco wanted the privilege of debating resolutions on presentation, and moved to amend to that extent. O'Brien, the Auburn-haired labor agitator of San Francisco, who aspires to the nomination to Congress from the Fourth District, also wanted to debate, and said so at this point Blennerhassett, now of Tehama, but who will be remembered in Los Angeles as a former resident of that city, and whose last position was watchman of the Courthouse, which place he forfeited as the penalty for a little gun-play as one of the Judges at a Seventh-ward primary, metaphorically shield his castor into the ring and took up cudgels in support of the amendment. The air of Tehama evidently agrees with Blennerhassett, and the old man presented an imposing front, which evidently took the fancy of the con-

NEAR THE END

Tariff Debate is Almost Finished.

Internal Revenue and Income Tax Remain.
The Latter May Occupy Two Days' Time.
Senator Hill the Bar to Progress—Sugar and Wool Olive Rise to No Further Controversy—Proceedings in the House.
Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Senator Mitchell of Oregon, who was absent from the city last week when the Senators were examined by the Senate Sugar Trust investigating Committee, went before the committee and answered to the questions concerning speculation and ownership of sugar stock. He answered all the questions in the negative, saying he had not bought, sold or owned any of the stock, and that no one in his family with his knowledge had done so.
 Very rapid progress was made on the tariff bill today. The income tax had been reached when the Senate adjourned. Only sixty-one pages of the bill, the income tax and internal revenue features remain undisposed of, and the end of the long debate seems close at hand. The remaining features of the free list were completed today without friction, both sugar and wool, the great controversial items, contrary to the expectation, not giving rise to debate.
 The contest over the income tax, which promises to be extremely interesting, if not sensational, will begin tomorrow.
 The duration of the debate on the income tax will depend largely on Senator Hill, and he has expressed the opinion that two days' time will be sufficient to dispose of the matter. The disposition on the Republican side is to let the Democrats settle the matter among themselves.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.
REGULAR SESSION.
Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Senator Peffer addressed the Senate today on the resolution instructing the Committee on Post-offices and Postroads to report back the Postal Savings Bill.

Senator Manderson said he introduced a postal savings bill based on the English system, but did not favor the paternalistic scheme of Senator Peffer, which contemplated making the government the banker of the people. No action was taken.

The resolution offered by Senator Cullem, instructing the Commissioner of Pensions to report what portion of the annual appropriations for pensions will remain undispensed at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, was agreed to, and the consideration of the free list of the tariff bill was resumed, the pending question being Senator Peffer's amendment to put salt on the dutiable list at 5 cents per 100 pounds. The present duty is 8 cents. Senator Peffer explained that, personally, he favored free salt, but his constituents interested in salt manufacturers believed that they were injuriously affected by placing salt on the free list.

Senator Peffer's amendment was lost—24 to 32.
 The Finance Committee's amendment restricting the free entry of raw silk to such as was manufactured in any way was agreed to.

When sugar was reached Senator Aldrich merely demanded the yeas and nays vote on the Finance Committee amendment to strike it from the free list, where it was placed by the House. The committee's amendment was carried by 25 to 22, all Republicans excepting Senator Quay voting solidly against and the Democrats for it.

The Senate, by a party vote, decided to put logs and lumber, including dressed lumber, on the free list.
 Senator Allen moved to put all lumber on the free list. Senator Chandler charged that the Nebraska Senator had made a bargain with the Democratic side. In explaining his vote on sugar his announcement that he had not yet made up his mind how to vote on the bill was a threat, and, in getting this amendment adopted, he was completing a bargain. Senator Aldrich notified that his vote and action were none of Senator Chandler's business.

Senator Chandler said he proposed to make it his business. Senator Allen subsequently replied to Senator Chandler's remarks. He claimed that he was not to be deterred from his purpose by a Senator who put himself in the attitude of a baboon on every possible occasion.

At 12 o'clock Senator Aldrich demanded a separate vote upon the committee amendment striking sugar from the free list. The amendment was adopted, 33 to 32. Senators Quay, Fry, Allen and Kyle voted yes. Jones's amendment, modified so as not to include section 50, relating to custom-house-brokers' licenses, was agreed to, and at 3:40 the Senate reached the income tax. Senator Hoar asked that it be passed over until tomorrow.

At 3 o'clock the Senate was considering section 9, relating to changes in the customs regulations. When section 23 is reached, Senator Jones will move to strike out sections 23 to 50, inclusive, portions of the administrative features of the bill, which it has been agreed to leave out.

Senator Peffer gave notice of his intention to offer an amendment to the graduated income tax so as to make incomes in excess of $1000 and below $10,000 subject to a tax of 1 per cent.; between $10,000 and $25,000, 2 per cent.; between $25,000 and $50,000, 3 per cent.; above $50,000 and $100,000, 4 per cent.; above $100,000, 5 per cent.

At 4:50 p.m. the Senate adjourned.
HOUSE.—The Anti-option Bill occupied the attention of the House all day, and an agreement was made that debate should close at adjournment tomorrow, and a vote be taken on the bill on Friday morning after the morning hour. Speeches were made against the bill by Representatives

Walker, Harter and Goldsler, while Mr. Richardson of Michigan spoke in favor of it.

What Peffer Wants to Know.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Senator Peffer today introduced a resolution, which was passed, to request the Secretary of Agriculture to inform the Senate as to the amount of wheat, visible and invisible; the estimated crop of this year; the amount necessary for export, and such information as may be available.

THE STANFORD DEBT.
Attorney Wilson Fails to Induce the Government to Forego Its Claim.
Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The Examiner's Washington correspondent says: "Information has been received here to the effect that Russell J. Wilson, Mrs. Stanford's attorney, has not been successful since his arrival here in having the government consent to waive its $15,000,000 claim against the Stanford estate for its portion of the debt due the government from the Central Pacific Railroad stockholders. Wilson's interview with Atty.-Gen. Olney, it is said, was not at all satisfactory to him, nor will it be to Mrs. Stanford."

"Wilson failed to get any satisfaction whatever out of the Attorney-General. This official would not indicate any other purpose than to push the claim against the Stanford estate. He informed Wilson that the matter had been carefully considered before the action was taken, and there was no other intention on the part of the government than to let the courts decide the whole matter."

"Wilson is said to have told Olney that the claim could not be successfully pressed, and this statement did not seem to please the Attorney-General a little bit. Wilson has also reiterated his belief that the government will fail in this case to several members of Congress, but, notwithstanding the fact that he seems to be sanguine in this respect, he is very anxious to have the bill introduced several days ago by Senator Hoar to relieve the Stanford estate of debt, called before the adjournment of Congress. He is working in the interest of the Hoar measure, but he has been told by certain prominent Senators that it could not be passed now nor at any time in the future."

"It is disclosed that C. P. Huntington is making a tremendous effort to have Congress pass at this session a funding bill of some nature that will be satisfactory to the Central Pacific people. That this is true is evident from the attention that is shown in the Senate chamber over this important question. Senators who are in sympathy with Huntington are now interviewing other Senators, in order to find out what their views are on the question. Several of them have been asked today whether they would support a funding bill if a proper one comes before the Senate."

"Senator Hawley, who is a close friend of Huntington, is said to be one of the men who is taking considerable interest in this matter. Senator Blanchard is another. It is ascertained that the Secretary of the Senate Committee on Pacific Railroads, is at present engaged in drafting a bill, and from the best information obtainable, it is believed that its provisions are similar to, if not identical with, the fifty-year 3-per-cent. funding bill the House Committee on Railroads has practically agreed to. It is known to be a fact that Chairman Brice has held numerous consultations with members of the committee of which he is chairman, as well as with other Senators, in regard to this matter, and it is believed that the provisions of the bill that will be reported by his committee are substantially drafted. It is hinted in certain quarters that Huntington does not care to have the impression get abroad that he would be willing to accept the bill prepared by the House committee, as this might injure its passage through Congress."

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Gov. Hooley, government fiscal counsel in the Union Pacific Railway receivership, held a consultation with the House Committee on Pacific Roads today.

The Reilly bill, embracing Atty.-Gen. Olney's plan, was commended by Headley as a most practical and sound financial relation between the government and the Union Pacific, and one which would protect all interested parties. An amendment met with favor, which provides that in case it becomes necessary for the government to foreclose, the foreclosure shall be made on the entire property.

THE HOMOEOPATHICS.
Close of the Fifth Annual Meeting of the American Institute.
Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
DENVER, June 20.—The fifth annual meeting of the American Institute of Homoeopathy, which ended tonight, is pronounced by the doctors in attendance one of the most successful and enjoyable ever held.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted today condemning the movement looking to transferring any existing homoeopathic institution to any other school of medicine in a manner which involves the surrender of its distinctive name, and under conditions which do not secure the recognition of distinctive chairs of homoeopathy. This was aimed particularly at the Michigan University, where efforts have been made to merge the old school in the other.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted condemning the course of Dr. Obetz, dean of the homoeopathic department in that university, for trying to secure the abandonment of a separate school of homoeopathy and having it taught in the general department of medicine. The resignation of Dr. Obetz from the faculty was emphatically and unanimously commended for. The meeting decided that, commencing with the session of 1895-96, all colleges recognized by the American Institute of Homoeopathy shall require attendance by students of homoeopathy upon four courses of lectures of not less than six months each in separate years.

Tomorrow many of the doctors will start on excursions to points of interest in Colorado.

Van Duser of San Francisco, holding a Siskiyou proxy, said the present Supreme Court, which was as pure as any in the country, had been selected under the old way. The proposed plan was dragging the court into politics, instead of taking it out. If he were the ruler, he would so arrange it that any judge who came med-

As McGowan resumed his seat, Gosper and Wells of Los Angeles jumped to their feet and attempted to catch the chairman's eye. He continued: "This is the first time in a political convention that I have ever seen an attempt made to throttle honest debate when a speaker is attempting to give reasons why gentlemen should or should not be influenced to act in certain ways. I propose to go on with the content of this convention. In a Republican convention there should be no place for the exercise of power of political bosses, and no room for such men to influence the party representatives or misrepresentatives of the people. Every patriot should then respond to the protests of the people."

The speaker continued in this vein for a short time, and then changed his tone, and brought Gen. Chipman before the convention as a man who had associated with the brightest stars that bedeck the firmament of the Republican party, who had received commendation from the warrior-statesman—U. S. Grant.

"The man I am to name," he continued, "is able as a lawyer, honest as a citizen and brave as a soldier in the time of his country's need. With modesty and grace he carries the title of general, a soldier-citizen who has no blot of dishonor on his escutcheon. He is honored and revered by all who know him. With such a candidate we need no assistance from those who claim to hold in the palm of their hands the destinies of the Republican party. Beware—beware. Let no general assume the leadership of the party until he receives the approbation of the party through the state. Let nothing divert you from a high purpose. Nominate Gen. Chipman and he will carry you to victory in November."

Julio Short, of Fresno, nominated McDonald, whom he called the "good gray" of Stanislaus, in an excellent speech. There were one or two seconds, among them Pillsbury of Tulare.

Block of San Mateo named Edward F. Preston of San Mateo, and the nomination was seconded by W. S. Barnes of San Francisco. The convention was clearly impatient to vote, and when a delegate moved that the nominations close, the motion was carried with a burrah. The chair immediately ordered a roll-call, and the secretary asked for Alameda's vote. A prolonged cheer followed the announcement that it cast sixty solid votes for Morris M. East. Then Alpine gave two and Amador eight for the man from Napa, with one for Chipman. Some confusion ensued when a dissatisfied delegate demanded that the roll-call be thrown open. It was done. As the roll-call slowly proceeded it was evident that East would have no trouble in winning.

Another delay, and some movement followed when Los Angeles asked to be polled. There were one or two other delegations, which were similarly inharmonious, and caused like interruptions, but finally, San Francisco was reached, and when the votes of the several districts were announced a wild cheer arose, and East was nominated.

The nomination was quickly made unanimous and there were calls for Estee. Messrs. W. S. Barnes and Schell of San Francisco and Davis Amador were appointed to bring the candidate forward. They speedily discharged their duty, and the usual cheers followed when Estee appeared on the floor. He made a graceful speech, accepting the nomination.

ESTEE ACCEPTS. In accepting the nomination for Governor Estee said: "I find myself bankrupt in words to express my deep appreciation of the distinguished honor you have conferred on me. I am one of those who believe that any of the gentlemen against me could have been elected, and the nominee would have had my earnest, continued and unceasing support. I believe in the great Republican party. It has the most splendid pages in the history of parties. Its past is great and its honors great, but its work is not ended. It is not ready to surrender to the enemy. The Republican party is armed for the contest, and it will form the head of the Republican line that marches on to great victories this year throughout the nation."

"California is entitled to be a Republican state. California industries are injured by the present Democratic administration more than any other state. It is an absolute necessity that we have competition by land and sea, that our producers may earn a livelihood. If we fail in this, and are besides afflicted by the calamity of free trade, our industries will be in ruins."

"In conclusion I say that whatever good I have done in this convention, I will promise to do not one thing which will bring discredit upon its action or dishonor upon the Republican party. Victory shall bring no disgrace and defeat no dishonor."

At 5:05 p.m. the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The action of the convention tomorrow in the nomination of candidates is, in the majority of cases, entirely conjectural. The most interesting fight will be over the Supreme Judgeships. It is said that it had been arranged for De Haven and Henshaw to receive the long-term nominations and Torrance of San Diego, the short term, but the latter tonight wholly refused to be a candidate for the short term, and the fight is still a free-for-all.

The impromptu ratification meeting took place tonight in front of the Golden Eagle Hotel. Candidate Estee, Gen. Chipman, John R. McDonald and Gen. A. L. Hart spoke, all endorsing the Republican ticket.

THE THIRD CONGRESS DISTRICT.

PRELIMINARIES.

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—The Burns and Estee element demonstrated their control of the Republican convention this morning, but the opposition did not yield without a fight. The two chief incidents of the morning were the pyrotechnic speech by Blennerhassett of Tehama, who, in inflammatory language, denounced bores and particularly a San Francisco "boss," who was a felon. The delegates supposed he referred to Burns, and tremendous confusion ensued. Chairman Knight had great trouble in restoring order and did so only by heavy pounding with his gavel, and commanding all persons, calling them by name, to come to order.

Blennerhassett then explained that he referred to another San Francisco "boss" from another party.

The anti-Burns people made a protracted fight on the report of the Committee on Order of Business seeking to place the nomination of Supreme Judges first. The Burns men stood up for the report of the committee and finally, after a long debate, they prevailed.

FIRST DISTRICT RAILROAD COMMISSIONER.

FIRST CONGRESS DISTRICT.

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—J. A. Barham of Santa Rosa was nominated for Congress today by the First Congress District Convention. Barham received 80 votes to 35 for T. J. Matlock of Tehama.

MAKING A NOISE ABOUT IT.

NAPA, June 20.—The news of Estee's nomination was received here with much enthusiasm and gives the utmost satisfaction. Cannons are booming and bells ringing in evidence of approval.

EASTERN POLITICS.

Populists of the Fourth Congress District of Kansas Nominate a Candidate.

EMPORIA (Kan.) June 20.—The Fourth Congress District Convention of Populists met in this city today and elected H. A. McLain of Marion as permanent chairman. A silver plank, at a 16-to-1 ratio, was adopted after much discussion, and Hon. S. M. Scott of Emporia was nominated for Congress on the first ballot.

The Governors of several States are expected to attend and the commercial bodies of most of the cities of the South will send delegates. They are to confer with the Commissioner of Immigration, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and leading business men interested in the Southern trade.

A Rumor That the Capitol Had Been Wrecked.

The Atchison Road Abandons Its Tracks on Account of Floods—The Missouri River Now Falling at Omaha.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service.

OMAHA, June 20.—Between 6:30 and 7 o'clock this evening Omaha was visited by one of the strongest gales experienced here in years. The wind came from about two points west of south and blew in gusts for about half an hour, attaining at times a velocity of nearly forty miles an hour.

It was accompanied by dense clouds of dust, which obscured the sky and made it as dark as midnight. Much damage of a minor nature was done all over the city.

Shade trees and shrubbery were blown down or broken off, and in some cases traffic was blocked by trees falling across the street. At Jefferson Square, near the center of the city, nearly every tree was blown down. Part of the roof of the Woodman Linseed Oil Works was blown off. The Murray Hotel was partially unroofed. The glass roof of the Bee building was damaged some, and a portion of the terra cotta ornamental work of the Boyd Opera-house was blown off.

At Courtland Beach one man in a boat on the lake was caught and drowned. His body has not yet been recovered, and it is not known whether the victim is Braden, the boat-tender, or O'Brien, his assistant. At Ames avenue one of the electric wires was blown into a tree, and Foreman Parish climbed up to fix it. He received a fatal shock from the wire.

The most serious reports come from Lincoln. It was rumored directly after the blow in Omaha that the capital city had been visited by a tornado. Many reports of buildings being destroyed and lives lost were rife, and as telegraph communication was interrupted for an hour or so, it was impossible to learn the truth. As soon as the Western Union could get a wire working, the Lincoln office reported that the storm there was similar to the one in Omaha, but was only a severe gale with no serious damage and no loss of life as far as could be learned.

Passengers who came in on the Burlington trains which passed through the storm report that the damage in the country was but slight. From all directions word comes of a big wind and light rain. It seems to have been merely a squall at the close of an unusually hot and sultry day.

A STORM AT SIOUX CITY.

SIOUX CITY (Iowa), June 20.—A terrible storm of wind and hail struck the city at 6 o'clock this morning. The roof of the Illinois Central station was carried over the union depot. Peavy and Stevenson had their wholesale furniture house unroofed and the Gettysburg Cyclorama was wrecked. The air for twenty-five minutes was so full of flying debris that it was not safe on the streets.

It is believed that immense damage has been done in the surrounding country.

UNSAFE RAILROAD TRACK.

ATCHISON (Kan.) June 20.—The Santa Fe Railroad has abandoned its track between here and St. Joseph, on account of the encroachments of the river. The company used the Rock Island track for a trip, and then decided that the Rock Island was also unsafe. This evening the Santa Fe is running over the Hannibal and St. Joe line.

At Winthrop Junction, a brakeman on the Santa Fe road can stand on the platform of a passenger-train and dip water from the river. "In a few days the lines of the tracks at Winthrop will doubtless be washed away. During the past two weeks fifty houses have been moved or torn down at East Atchison."

A DROP OF WATER.

OMAHA, June 20.—The river fell two tenths of an inch this morning and last night, and the signal service thinks it will continue to drop, as the indications at all points north are for lower water.

SIXTY AND EIGHTEEN.

Wedding of a Wealthy Widow and a Young Farm Hand.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service.

GREENLAND, (L. I.), June 20.—The wedding of Mrs. Marietta Cheshire, aged 69 years, to William Castle, coming from a created a stir. Mrs. Cheshire is the widow of the late Jeremiah Cheshire, one of the most prosperous farmers in that section of Long Island. After his death she managed the farm successfully.

A short time ago William Castle asked for work. The widow told the boy that he was not adapted to farm work, but put him into the field. Castle was very attentive to his duties. Occasionally he sympathized with Mrs. Cheshire on the loss of her husband. When the widow and young Castle took a train for New York the other farmhands recollected that the black silk which she wore to the railroad depot had not been taken from its peg since the death of her first husband, and that Castle was attired in a dove-tailed cutaway coat and wore spiked-toed patent leather shoes. The farmhands immediately began an investigation among the neighbors and learned that a clerical man from Huntington had been driven to the farmhouse the evening before and married Castle and the widow.

A servant girl employed in the house admitted the truth of the story and said that the boy and the widow were married in the parlor in the presence of two guests. When the train in which the couple were expected from New York drew up at the railroad station a fat-barrel fire was lighted on the roadway in front of their house and everything from which a noise could be produced was used. The bride and bridegroom repaired immediately to the house which they closed and barricaded. The leader of the crowd took a crowbar and began pounding on the old dinner bell.

The bride appeared on the doorstep and said she had a right to marry whom she chose and offered to propitiate the seceders with a little cider and molasses cake. "If you serve the cake and the bridegroom serves the cider, we will call it a go," said the spokesman. The terms were accepted and after that all went merrily.

Deserted at Sacramento.

DENVER, June 20.—M. J. Sullivan, a railroad man, was arrested last night on a charge of abducting Mrs. Ella G. Turner, a widow, out of $1800. Sullivan met Mrs. Turner in Boston and induced her to go West with him. At Sacramento he deserted her. Sullivan had $1100 sewed in his coat sleeves.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Just Incorporated in This City by Well-known Citizens.

That Los Angeles is Rapidly Becoming the Commercial Center of California is Witnessed by the Great Increase of New Business Ventures.

One of the latest is the Triche Coffee Company, composed of George W. Fischer, an old resident and well-known business man of Los Angeles; W. J. Kline, formerly of Des Moines, Iowa; and Ben Cohen, remembered as the successful proprietor of the Vienna Bakery.

The new company has opened a saleroom at No. 313 West Sixth street, for the purpose of furnishing to consumers of coffee the famous "Triche" coffee, the very finest quality ever produced in the United States. It is roasted by an entirely new, secret process, by which the valuable properties of the coffee berry are retained in all their purity, and, in consequence, the coffee thus prepared possesses twice the strength of ordinary coffee, and is correspondingly cheaper, as two table-spoonfuls do the work of three under the old methods.

Nowhere in America is this process used. The new company has secured the exclusive right to roast coffee under the "Triche" process. This famous coffee will be sold at retail, as well as at wholesale, and once tried will be always used. The city will be canvassed, so those desiring to test the merits of the "Triche" coffee can have it delivered at their doors. Ladies old shopping are invited to call at No. 313 West Sixth street and sample this delicious beverage, at once pure and exhilarating. Those having used the "Triche" coffee will be satisfied with no other. The cheap coffees of commerce are insipid and valueless compared with this famous production, and when it is remembered that its cost is the same as the common coffee, the great merits of the "Triche" coffee are apparent.

Don't fail to get a sample of the "Triche" coffee. It will be an eye-opener to coffee drinkers. Try it once, and its merits will insure further use.

The new Triche Coffee Company is composed of representative business men, who have invested their money in an enterprise that is destined to become a large and important one in this city, and they are satisfied that the public will appreciate the merits and value of this superior and delicious beverage.

Retail trade solicited. Country orders will receive prompt attention. Every ounce of coffee guaranteed as represented or money refunded.

The Claims of Santa Monica and San Pedro.

Maj. Raymond, of the Engineers, Gives Testimony.

Mysterious Disappearance of a Little Spanish Girl—Aren Pierce is Convicted at Bakersfield of Murder—Coast Notes.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service. SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The Examiner's Washington correspondent sends the following report of yesterday's hearing in the Los Angeles harbor matter:

"Nearly all of the day was occupied by the Senate Commerce Committee listening to arguments for and against the construction of a deep-water harbor at Santa Monica. C. L. Corbitt, an engineer in the employ of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and at present engaged in the construction of a railroad bridge at New Orleans, made the principal argument in favor of an appropriation for building a breakwater at that point. He stated that he had been requested by Huntington and Senator Fry, late chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, to make a thorough investigation of both Santa Monica and San Pedro harbors and to report the result of these examinations to Congress.

"After this examination he became convinced that it was impracticable to make a good harbor at San Pedro, because the anchorage was bad, even if a breakwater could be built to protect the harbor. Constant dredging would be required to keep the anchorage ground free from accumulating sand, which the northern currents would carry in.

"Representative Cannon denied this statement, declaring that he never knew of a case of drowning at San Pedro, in which the body did not drift away to the southward. Corbitt then advanced many arguments in favor of Santa Monica, declaring that vessels had been unloading coal at that place during storms which had wrecked ships at San Pedro.

"Maj. Raymond of the United States engineers, who was a member of the board that in 1882 recommended San Pedro in preference to Santa Monica, was called upon to give a detailed statement of the work of the board. He said that he advertised to take the testimony of business men and seamen at Los Angeles upon various questions involved, made a thorough examination of the maps of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the soundings of government engineers and compared all these and made a report in favor of San Pedro.

"He was asked if he believed a good harbor could be built at Santa Monica, and he answered that it could not, and that he would never advise the government to spend money there. He said that a good harbor could be constructed at San Pedro, because it was sheltered and protected by Catalina Island.

"George H. Patton, representing the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, made a detailed statement of the harbor at Santa Monica, and when asked if he believed it could not be built, he answered that it could not, and that he would never advise the government to spend money there. He said that a good harbor could be constructed at San Pedro, because it was sheltered and protected by Catalina Island.

"Senator Jones of Nevada, who owns 14,000 acres opposite the harbor at Santa Monica, and who is a member of the Commerce Committee, took an active part in the cross-examination of witnesses who appeared against Santa Monica.

"C. P. Huntington submitted an argument, and was asked if he did not own one railroad already completed from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and another which was nearly completed, he answered that he did. He was then asked whether he cared very much about a harbor at all, but did not answer the question.

"T. C. Korman, who represents the Los Angeles Terminal road, made a short but vigorous speech against Santa Monica, and in favor of San Pedro. The Southern Pacific road offered to haul as good granite twenty-seven miles to San Pedro for the same rate per mile. T. E. Gibbon, attorney of the Los Angeles Terminal, refused many statements made by the Southern Pacific, and explained how his road had secured an entrance at San Pedro, and why, in his opinion, the Southern Pacific had abandoned that port.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service. BAKERSFIELD, June 20.—The jury in the case of Aaron Pierce, charged with the murder of A. P. TUBERCULOSIS AT SAN JOSE.

One Cow Killed and Many More Known to Be Affected.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service. SAN JOSE, June 20.—Dr. H. S. Spencer, chairman of the California State Veterinary Society, has killed a cow affected with tuberculosis. The cow was owned by a private family. The doctor was given permission a few days ago to experiment in ascertaining if the cow was infected with the disease. The animal's appearance did not betray that it had the disease, but forty-eight hours after the injection of Koch's lymph the unmistakable signs appeared.

A CHILD MISSING.

The Nine-year Old Daughter of Nestor Torres Probably Abducted.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service. RIVERSIDE, June 20.—The mysterious disappearance of a nine-year-old Spanish child from its parents' home in this city has caused considerable interest. The child left home the evening before last to go a short distance from the house to feed a burro, since which time it has not been heard from. The child arrived here with its father from Mexico only a few days ago, and with them came another Mexican named Gavino Ramos. Nestor Torres, father of the child, believes that Ramos has kidnapped his daughter.

Ramos is a drunken fellow, who has threatened to carry the child away, and the belief of the father that he has done so is strengthened by the fact that Ramos has not been since the disappearance of the girl. Officers are searching for Ramos, but have little hope of finding him, as it is believed he has gone back to Mexico.

MURDERED ON SUSPICION.

Former Hatcher Kills School-teacher Blair at Lee, Or.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service. MARSHFIELD (Or.) June 20.—News was received here from Lee, a small settlement about twenty miles east of this place, on the North Fork of Coquille River, that a murder had been committed. W. H. Hatcher, a farmer, had been out hunting during the afternoon and evening, and upon returning home about 11 o'clock, found Frank Blair, a school-teacher whom he had suspected of undue intimacy with his wife, in the house.

Hatcher immediately fired two shots, both of which took effect and caused Blair's death in about two hours. Hatcher after the shooting left the house and has not yet been arrested. Blair was about 25 years old.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Two Men Arrive at Yuma After Suffering on the Desert.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service. YUMA (Ariz.) June 20.—Guy Tombs and William Marvin came in day before yesterday, having made eighty miles in nine hours down the Colorado. Both were nearly dead, having been on the Chukwalla Desert forty hours without water. They were obliged to throw away provisions, blankets, tools, and leave their burros behind, perishing for the want of water. Neither were able to stand when they reached the river. At one time they were within two hundred yards of water, but did not know it. Tombs is from Los Angeles.

Assassin Prendergast was taken to the Criminal Court at Chicago yesterday for his insanity trial. The State asked for a special venire, and the jury was selected.

The regular venire was exhausted before the special one was summoned. Judge Payne declared the venire was exhausted, and the State asked for a special venire to be ordered. Prendergast asked the court to dismiss the jury.

In the British Commons yesterday, Hugh Arnold-Forster moved to reduce the salary of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, in order to discuss the situation of affairs in Ireland. He complained that the speeches of members of Parliament had resulted in assaults, injury to property and the revival of boycotting. He claimed that the government ought to stop the illegal action of the Board of Guardians in passing resolutions against land-grabbing, which he said was a violation of the constitution.

L. W. Russell, in seconding Arnold-Forster's motion, pointed out the fact that the government was to stop the illegal action in Ireland, which, he said, fostered agrarian crime.

VALUE OF PAVED STREETS.

Last Loss Entailed Yearly to the Country Through Bad Roadways.

Many people can be induced to incur large expense for street paving by well-founded prospects of gain from it. They regard it as they would an investment. Though it is less desirable, when viewed independently of these very practical considerations, it may well be subjected to such tests of value as paving and Municipal Engineering. Its paying qualities are, to some extent, capable of demonstration. Its economies may be indicated by comparisons of the cost of transportation, of relative wear, and consequential loss, and of maintenance of paved and unpaved streets. While there are wide differences in the resistance to traction of asphalt, wood block, brick and granite block road surfaces, the average, where the streets of a city are paved in about equal proportion with these materials, is less than one-third the average resistance on the streets of a city having only macadam, cobblestone, earth and sand road surfaces in about equal proportion. As one horse can, therefore, draw for ten hours three times as heavy a load on streets of the first class, there must be an average saving of two-thirds in the cost of all transportation by means of animals and vehicles where paved streets are used. In other words, the city with well-paved streets will get at the same cost three times as much service as one with streets that are not well paved.

The possible gain from this, in dollars and cents, is indicated by the statistics of freight transportation in the year 1890 the railways of the United States moved 701,344,487 tons of freight, which was probably hauled over roads or streets at the rate of one cent per ton per mile. The cars, an average distance of half a mile each way. As a load weighing a ton cannot be transported by means of animals and vehicles for less than 40 cents, which will be used in this calculation as an average charge, the street haulage of the freight moved by the United States in 1890 must have amounted to about $280,537,775.80. It will be assumed, however, at the risk of being much too liberal in a tendency to underestimate, that the average street haul was only a quarter of a mile each way, and that the cost was, therefore, $140,268,887.40. A saving of two-thirds of this sum would carry to the credit of the economy of the country street paving $280,537,775.80 a year, or without making any allowance for the annual increase of traffic, $280,537,775.80 in ten years. The freight moved by the railroads, it is supposed, was carried largely into or from the 225 cities which constitute the principal markets, or distributing centers of the country, but after all, railroads freight represent only a portion of the street hauling, doubtless much less than one-half, so that, after much trimming, we are brought at last to the conclusion that the cost of street traffic, largely in cities of more than ten thousand population, can be reduced $187,028,183 a year, or $1,870,281,832 in ten years, which, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, would make a total saving in a decade of $1,983,804,928.80, which would pay for 24,044 miles of street paving, at a cost of $70,000 a mile.

Non-union Men are Induced to Join Ranks With Them.

One Mine Running, But an Effort Will Be Made to Shut It Down—The American Railway Union Convention.

Associated Press Leased-Wire Service. IRONWOOD (Mich.) June 20.—Two thousand Gogebic Range miners, comprising all the forces at the Aurora, Norrie, Pabst, Newport and East Norrie mines, went on a strike today. The unionists assembled early, and, marching to the mines, persuaded the non-union men to quit work. The steam shovels loading from the stockpiles all suspended operations promptly. The Colby is still running with a full force, but efforts will be made to induce the men to join the strike tonight.

THE RAILWAY UNION. CHICAGO, June 20.—Today's session of the American Railway Union was a conservative one and was devoted to the adoption of the new constitution. The delegates had voted to elect officers in convention instead of through the directors, but this plan President Debs stoutly opposed. He asserted that unless the decision was reconsidered he would refuse a reelection as president and finally succeeded in securing an almost unanimous vote for an election by the directors.

AN EMPTY TREASURY. HARTSFORD (Conn.) June 20.—As a result of the miners' strike the Connecticut treasury is empty. There is not more than enough money in sight to carry current expenses, and there will be no service after the summer vacation unless the run from coal royalties is made before the end of the month. The owners of coal lands and all the Choctaws generally are deeply incensed at the existing condition of affairs, and will insist that the laws relating to land be fully filled to the letter. A prominent Choctaw stated that every man within the nation would have to conform with the permit law or get out.

PROMINENT "STRIKERS." BEVER (Mo.) June 20.—J. R. Poor and Robert Johnson were arrested today, charged with burning the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad bridge on June 11. They are suspected of being the leaders in midnight attacks on local mines. Neither is a miner. Poor owns fifteen or twenty tenement houses.

TROOPS WILL BE NEEDED. WICHITA (Kan.) June 20.—The situation at Round Pond, Okla., growing out of the complication between the Rock Island Railway is serious. Deputy Marshal Madden has reported that in his opinion the United States troops will be needed to prevent a serious outbreak.

CONDEMNED THE OFFICERS. COLUMBUS (O.) June 20.—The State coal miners, in executive session today, adopted a resolution by a two-thirds vote condemning the national officers for signing a compromise with conditions.

THE ARMOR FRAUDS. WASHINGTON, June 20.—C. F. Sullivan's evidence on the armor-plate frauds was concluded before the investigating committee today. Chairman Cummings expects to have Charles H. Craig, one of Sullivan's fellow-workmen at the Carnegie works, as the next witness. Sullivan and Craig are the two who made the original disclosures.

THE NATIONAL PRISON CONGRESS. ST. PAUL, June 20.—In the day session of the National Prison Congress, a paper by Dr. Ransom, on tuberculosis was read by Dr. Rankin of Allegheny City. He asserted that 70 per cent of the deaths in New York prison were due to consumption. The duty of the State to unfortunate children was the object of the paper by Dr. Walter Lindley of California.

A Mendacious Private. WASHINGTON, June 20.—A story coming from Omaha, Neb., to the effect that Charles Cederquist, a private in the Second Infantry, is using counterfeit money for refusal to participate in the martial practice on Sunday, met a very prompt denial at the War Department today. The officers say that Cederquist has undoubtedly assigned a false reason for his arrest, as martial practice on Sunday is unheard of in the army, and would be directly in violation of the army regulations.

ONE FOUNDATION MIXTURE FOR THE VARIOUS KINDS.

[From a Special Contributor.]

"I have come to the conclusion," said an old housekeeper to me recently, "that there is a foundation cake corresponding to stock, the necessary ingredient for nearly all soups. And that foundation is 'One, two, three,' which, being interpreted, is one cup of butter and one cup of milk, two cups of sugar, three eggs and three cups of flour."

In its simple form it is cup cake, which may be flavored to taste, with vanilla, with fresh lemon juice and with the rind, with almond, or with rosewater.

By dividing the dough, and mixing half with grated chocolate it makes an excellent marble cake.

With the addition of currants, citron, raisins, or all three and spice, it becomes a plain fruit cake.

By substituting coffee for milk and adding a teaspoonful of cinnamon, it is a good coffee cake.

By using the white of the eggs for one half, and the yolks for the other, you can have gold and silver cake.

It is also a very fair mixture for layer cake of all kinds.

INGREDIENTS FOR CAKE.

"Good cooks are always extravagant," say the uninitiated; but good cooks know that good results cannot be obtained from poor materials nor scanty supply.

English cake is as disagreeably notorious as English coffee, and the explanation may be found in a standard cook-book, which announces gravely that where baking powder is used eggs are not necessary, and that for plain cake, dripping or lard may be used instead of butter. This is no marvel designed for "workingmen's wives" like one that I picked up at a railway station, but is so "extravagant" in its recipes that many middle-class housewives forbear to use it, except for company.

Good cake requires good butter, as good as for the table. It demands fresh eggs, pure flavoring extracts, and the "foundation" recipe embodies correct proportions.

Opinions differ as to sugar. Some insist on granulated, which doctors say is the purest in the market; it should therefore certainly be used for all invalid cookery. Loaf is the same sugar in another form. Some teachers of cookery prefer powdered sugar, which is the most adulterated. The fact that cane and beet sugars are sold indiscriminately renders it necessary for one to be sure of the sweetness of sugar before relying altogether upon proportions given in a recipe. The only way to decide is by tasting.

When sugar is at all hard or lumpy it should be rolled perfectly smooth. This may best be accomplished by placing it on brown paper, folding the paper over it and rolling like pastry.

CREAMING.

The butter and sugar should always be creamed together. The mixture should be of the consistency and color of hard sauce. If the butter is too hard to mix well it may be softened, but under no circumstances melted. The delicacy of the cake would vanish instantly from such a mishap.

Old-fashioned cook books give recipes calling for the weight of certain ingredients in eggs, and this is certainly the most definite plan for the cookery such as is required for wedding cake, sponge cake or pound cake. Eggs average eight to the pound, small ones ten.

Whites and yolks should invariably be beaten separately, and the whites should strain them. The test for sufficient beating of the yolks is that it ceases to "firing" and falls in drops from the beater. Eggs for proper cake making, a cake coarse and tough. Yolks should be added to the creamed butter and sugar.

The whites should alternate with the flour. A pinch of salt will facilitate stiffening. Chilling the egg-beater and bowl is another plan. The whites should be stiff enough to cut with a knife, yet a drop of liquid albumen may be allowed to enter into the composition of cake.

TAKING PAINS.

Any one can make a good cake. There is no magic about it, as there seems to be in many branches of cookery. It is a matter of taking infinite pains. Measure, sift and weigh every time. The best cook I ever knew was an old lady nearly 70, who brought out her scale and weights and weighed her flour as carefully as if she were selling it every time she made bread.

Cake should be stirred in but one direction. I have tried reversing the motion again and again as an experiment, only to learn that there is evidently a scientific principle involved. So, too, there is a right order for mixing the ingredients, and it cannot be altered with impunity. First the butter and sugar; then the yolks of the eggs; then a little flour before putting in the milk or liquid to prevent possible curdling, and the flour added alternately, the baking powder being mixed dry with the flour and the flavoring to be put in last of all.

JUDGMENT REQUIRED.

When sour milk is used—and sour milk is much better for many kinds of cake, such as gingerbread and the old-fashioned dark molasses cake—soda also must be used, never baking powder, and put in last of all, even after the flavoring. Sour milk requires less flour than sweet milk, and this leads us to the question of the judgment required in cakemaking.

I have called attention to variations in such matters as eggs, but these are not of as much importance as the flour, which should be a cake too stiff or too thin it is spoiled, and flour so very that judgment is needed in bakings according to recipe. Some absorb moisture like a sponge, others remain dry and hard, and though the given quantity of liquid be used neither will be a success. Cake should never pour like batter, should be so heavy it would hold a spoon upright. It should simply run easily from the mixing bowl into the pan.

RULE FOR THE HEAT.

A French authority gives this test for the oven: "Try it with a piece of white paper; if too hot, the paper will blacken or blaze up; if it becomes a light brown it is fit for pastry; if it turns dark yellow it is fit for bread and the heavier kinds of cake; if light yellow it is ready for sponge or the light plain cakes."

LAYER CAKE requires a quick oven. Sponge cake demands a moderate one, fruit cake needs a slow heat.

With moderate oven the door should not be opened for at least twenty minutes. Fruit cake may be trusted to bake without inspection. Beware of slamming the door of an oven in closing it.

A cake should never be taken out to test it. The best test is a brown straw thrust into the cake in several places—not one.

All cakes except those baked in shallow tins should be poured on buttered paper, which should extend well up the sides, no tin should be filled more than three-fourths full. When removed from the oven take the cake out, unless you possess one of the new patented cake pans which are provided with slides to obviate this necessity, balance your cake half way out of the tin, so that it may cool without "sweating."

Albert Grimaldi, Prince of Monaco, got $1,500,000 as his last year's share of the profits of the notorious gaming establishments in his dominions, not to speak of his dividends on the gambling company's stock, which, notwithstanding it was a "bad year," exceeded 40 per cent. These profits represent an awful deal.

RAPID PROGRESS.

Arizona's Future as Viewed Supreme Justice Baker.

An Interesting Talk on the Possibilities
the Territory—Increased Railway
Facilities Will Surely Bring Prosperity.

TUCSON (Ariz.) June 16.—(Special response.) Hon. A. C. Baker,
Justice of Arizona, arrived here from
Territory two days ago on his way
Prescott, where a term of the Supp
Court is to be held on July 2.

"Yes," said the Chief Justice, in an to a question propounded by the T correspondent, "this is rather a grow about way for any one to take who m

...to go comfortably from Phoenix to Prescott, but I believe that Arizonans of the southern and central parts of the Territory, who wish to go to the capital in the northern section, will be enabled to reach it without any necessary trouble, or without leaving the Territory at all.

The Phoenix and Prescott Railroad as we call it out there, the North

South railway, is now constructing within eighty miles of Phoenix. There are 700 men hard at work grading and laying track upon these eighty miles, the road will be surely completed by the beginning of the year. Then the anxious condition of a person having to travel several hundred miles and into another State to reach a place, which is less than two hundred miles away, will cease completely. The inauguration of that which will place us in communication with been. I assure you that the Coxey

Territory was always a poor place

"Take mining, for instance. The M moth mine at Goldfields, in the Supe

tion Mountains, is turning out very large quantities of bullion. Senator Tabor just concluded a visit to the Vulture, a splendid piece of property which has lain idle for a matter of eight or ten years and the result of his inspection is that an eighty-stamp mill will soon be put in operation again, and that many miners again delve into this once-so-well-known producer of gold.

"Yes, sir, Arizona is today in a condition of prosperity which outsiders can hardly realize, but it is nevertheless a fact that her future has never seemed brighter."

"The Territory has reason to be grateful to the Los Angeles Times. It is widely circulated throughout the principal cities of Arizona, and I may say none is read with more attention. It has been a great friend to the Territory and I appreciate the good it has done for us."

BOUNDARY MONUMENTS.
Lieut.-Col. Barlow, U. S. Engineers,

missioner and disbursing officer of the International Boundary Survey, which has its headquarters at present at San Diego, came in from Yuma on Sunday. He stated that the placing of boundary monuments between Yuma and the sea is very nearly completed and that it will not exceed four or five days more. The work on the one on the seashore is finished. The office work also is nearly up to date. The placing of the last monument to the

of having put up monuments in sight of each other from El Paso up to the westernmost line of San Diego county will soon be accomplished. The work of the International Boundary Survey has covered a period of over two and a half years, during its progress none but the best results have existed between the United States and Mexican forces which often met especially in the monument party, working in conjunction.

Commencement Exercises.
RIVERA, June 20.—(Special Correspondence.) The commencement exercises at the Rancho public school were held last night. The schoolhouse was elaborately decorated. Several Los Angeles people were present. The graduating class consisted of Miss Minnie Neff, Elmer H. Kiss and Charles Story. The exercises were under the auspices of Prof. T. Guthrie and Miss Emma Gooch. All pupils who took part acquitted themselves well and reflected credit upon their teachers. Edward Hutchinson delivered a dress and presented the diplomas. He spoke of the lack of really educated, trained people and the ease with which an earnest boy or girl can succeed. He said that there was not only "room at the top," but that the top is not very high. After the regular programme was completed Miss May Abbott surprised the Guthrie by presenting him with a fine

Long Beach Graduates.

The commencement exercises of the Long Beach public school, held on Tuesday evening at the Tabernacle at 25th street, drew together a great number of the relatives and friends of the pupils.

The increase in the number of pupils during the term just closed has made the work of the efficient corps of teachers exceedingly trying and arduous. A relative idea of this extra work, as well as of the remarkable increase in the number of the pupils of Long Beach may be gained when it is known that the roster at the opening of the school last fall showed the names of 147 pupils, and closed last Friday morning nearly three hundred pupils enrolled. There were only four teachers for this large number of scholars, they being Misses Lina Lightburn, Mary C. Bray and Kate Bailey and Principal W. S. Bailey.

The names of the four recipients of graduating diplomas are: Myra Frazier, Miss Sammie Golsen, Charlie Eastman and Hazelton Seelye, the valedictorian.

Harry Conlan's Death.

J. Harry Conlan, the well known decorator and a prominent member of the order of the N. S. G. W., died of heart failure at the New United States Hotel yesterday morning, somewhat unexpectedly, at the early age of 52 years.

Conlan, who came here from San Francisco during the boom, was unusually popular at one time, but to this very fact his subsequent decline is in all probability due, for he indulged in excesses to such an extent as to shatter his health. Upon his return to the hotel on Sunday evening last he was taken so seriously ill as to necessitate the constant attendance of a nurse. Dr. M. E. Sykes was called in and prescribed for him, but he gradually grew worse and finally collapsed yesterday morning.

The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of R. H. Garrett & Co., by whom it was shipped to San Francisco last evening, in accordance with telegraphic instructions from the relatives of the deceased at that place.

Aston's Funeral.

J. E. Aston, the leading undertaker of Pomona who died Sunday evening, was buried yesterday at Pomona from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Rev. D. M. Nykoop, officiating. The interment was at the Pomona Cemetery. Col. T. W. Brooks, F. Schwan, H. H. Byron, J. Gregg, W. C. Second and M. Lester acted as pall-bearers. There was a large attendance at the funeral, for Mr. Aston was well known and had a wide circle of friends.

THE 'WEALERS' WOE.

Industrials Want to Get Out of Jail.

Their Attorney Files a Petition in the Circuit Court of Appeals Asking for the Release of the Men—Jurisdiction Questioned.

The San Francisco Call of Monday has the following to say in regard to the efforts made by the Commonweal, recently sentenced by Judge Ross to serve four months in prison, to obtain their release:

"United States Marshal Covarrubias of the Southern District of California is about to have his hands full holding in jail the 173 members of the Industrial Army who took a ride on Atlantic and Pacific rolling stock from Mojave to Barstow the 7th inst.

"Each and every one of the prisoners wants his liberty, and to obtain it they have pooled issues and employed J. Marion Brooks, a Los Angeles attorney, to open the doors for them. The first move in the case was the filing of a lengthy petition yesterday in the Circuit Court of Appeals, asking that each of the imprisoned 'wealers' be produced in court by Marshal Covarrubias and that that official be compelled to show cause why he is holding them—unlawfully, they claim. It was on the 10th inst. that the Southern California 'wealers,' wayworn and weary in their efforts to get on the grass at the Capitol in Washington, fell afoul of a locomotive and a train of cars at Barstow. They took possession and rode to Mojave, where they were preparing for a further move on to Washington, when they were gobbled up to the number of 173 by the insatiable Covarrubias and his myrmidons. W. J. Hunsaker, they claim, was the instigator of the order for their arrest, he having made affidavit that the Industrials had acted in plain contempt of the order of the court previously made in appointing receivers for the Atlantic and Pacific road.

"They were tried and Judge Ross sentenced the 173 in a bunch to four months' terms in jail.

"This, the Industrials set up in their petition, was without due process of law, as they were utterly beyond the court's jurisdiction. They also say it's contrary to the Constitution and it is on these grounds that J. Marion Brooks of Los Angeles proposes to depopulate the jails of his country.

"Judge McKenna will give the petition his attention as soon as he returns to the city."

FOR MINOR OFFENSES.

Defendants Who Appeared Before the Police Justices.

In the Police Court yesterday five inebriates were fined in sums ranging from $5 to $3 each. Ed Moreno was fined $2 for having left his horse unattended on the street. George Wilkinson was fined $1 for distributing hand-bills, and J. Relihan was convicted of peddling without a license and ordered to reappear for sentence today.

Max Harris, the lottery agent, and his clerk, Ernest Comport, appeared with their counsel, H. T. Gage, Esq., to plead to the five charges of lottery ticket selling preferred against them, but at the request of Mr. Gage they were allowed until this afternoon to decide upon their pleas.

W. S. Allen, the Spring-street furniture dealer, appeared for trial upon the charge of having obstructed the sidewalk in front of his store, preferred against him by Officer Fay. It was shown for the prosecution that the iron trap-doors on the sidewalk in front of Allen's store had been left open, and that cases of furniture had been allowed to remain on the elevator for at least two hours. The defendant, while not prepared to deny this statement, claimed that the elevator was almost constantly in use from 7 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening, and he stated also that it would seriously interfere with his business, if he was required to close the trap-doors every time the elevator was not actually in use. At the close of the evidence, Justice Austin reserved his decision until today.
